"We have between 75 and 100 miles of turnpike in this county, with about twenty-two tollgates. The tollgate keepers are paid on an average $100 per year. This amounts to $2,200. They also set their house real free, worth about $3 a mouth each. This, added to their aggregated salaries, makes $2,376 a year that it conts to collect the toll in Boyle county every year. We have about 2,700 voters in the county that pay to the turnpike companies every year about $47,300 a year in the county that pay to the turnpike companies every year about $47,300 a year for this is a fair estimate, and does not include the free travel done by school children, etc. If it is true that we pay out $47,200 a year for the turnpike companies over year and have enough mosey peff to repair them for five years. I am in favor of having even better roads than we have got now, and I am also in favor of the county paying for the turnpikes everything they are now worth. For $500 or $600 a years we can employ a competent man to superintend every road in the county. I have been informed that it will cost only $20 per mile to keep the roads in repair. Therefore $3,000 will pay the overseer's salary, the cost of repair and the pay of the Sheriff for collecting the tax. In other words, after burying the turnpikes, we will pay all expenses of sustaining them and save $44,500 per year. The Critical ways If the is not thunder "igures." This project was for the first time publicly announced Saturday evening paper read before the Geographical Section of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sefences. Dr. Cook has succeeded in enlisting the active support of various scientific bodies, and of private individuals as well, in his scheme. There is no doubt that the sum necessary to fit and send out the expedition—325,000—will be completely subscribed within a short time.

Instead of employing a steam whaler,
as last year programme called for, Dr.

In the course of his remarks last evening, Dr. Cools referred to the discovery by Capt. Larzen, of the Dundes sealing fleet, who found on Cape Seymour, in latitude 64 south, about fifty balls, apparently made by human hands, of sand and clay, and perched upon pillars constructed of the same material.

"This is the first evidence," said Dr. Ok, "of human existence in the Anti-tite. To my mind human habitation the Antarctic shores is not impossis, nor do I deem it by any means imbable to find there an isolated tribe men, feeding and dressing from the crall sea farms."

At the conclusion of the address of men, seesing and cressing from the liberal sea farmsion of the address steps were taken to appoint a committee of the section which will assist Dr. Cook to send out his expedition.

Dr. Cook is still a young man, being under thirty. In 1891-92 he was the surgeon and ethnologist of Lieut. He has gone to the Arctic twice since.
